PRODUCT DISCLAIMER

rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. is proud to offer complete design solutions to its customers. For non-standard products where the customer has specified the required components and / or assembly methods, rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. will not assume any liability or responsibility for the aesthetics, ergonomics, functionality, overall design, quality, integrity or longevity of the assembled product, especially in those instances where there is an inappropriate use or miss-application of the components. Although rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. takes all necessary steps to ensure that the customer is receiving a quality product, the malfunction or failure of any component cannot be completely ruled out, especially in an inappropriate design.

While rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. will accept most custom designs, we cannot guarantee them, therefore we encourage our customers to involve us in the beginning stages of their designs and to allow us to do the work for them. rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. reserves the right to refuse any custom designs especially those it deems unsafe for the application or those extremely difficult to manufacture.

With any custom design, the customer must warrant it as original work or, to the extent that this is not the case, the customer must guarantee that they are authorized to use any third party intellectual properties in their design. rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. will not knowingly infringe on the rights of any third party or otherwise that could result in a potential lawsuit.

rde Connectors and Cables, Inc. makes no warranty or guarantee, implied or otherwise, of product suitability for custom applications. Applications for severe conditions or requiring extreme reliability are incumbent on the customer to provide full disclosure of the application. Unless verified in writing by rde Connectors and Cables, Inc., no products, standard or otherwise, are designed and built for use in medical, life-saving, or life-sustaining applications or any other application in which product failure could result in personal injury or death.
